

The Eugene Natural History Society
Presents a Free Program (with free snacks!)

[Note change of previously announced speaker]

28

Sex Life of Plants: Pollination Biology
David H. Wagner

Courtesy Associate Professor of Biology,
Institute of Ecology and Evolution, University of Oregon

Northwest Botanical Institute, Eugene, Oregon

David will be speaking about how seeds are produced a variety of fertilization mechanisms. Without a strategy to cross pollinate, flowering plants would not have evolved to populate the earth. The emphasis of this talk will be on native plants of our region, especially trees and shrubs.

Friday, 20 February 2026, 7:00 pm